American League Drew 124,000 Spectators to Games.

Chicago, Get. 22.—It has been the popular bellet among baseball rans that the past season has not only proved disastrous to the Chicago National league club, but in comparison with Comiskey's team, the local American league club has beavily outdrawn Mr. Hart's aggregations of the chory has been number.

To delve into the abstract figures showing the exact numbers in attendance upon the sames of the two leagues in this city would shatter the fond ideas of many an enthusiastic fair. For these prove conclusively that President Harr's team has outdrawn President Comiskey's ball team two to one, despite the had season and the poor game the National leaguers put up.
In round numbers there were 124,000 puld admissions to games on the south side grounds this year while there were 288,000 who paid to see the National league team in its struggles against the other seven clubs of the league.

Comiskey's was the newer stand and a minor loague, and naturally this result was to be anticipated.

During the annual meeting of the Amertean league last week considerable discussion was engendored relating to the amount of mency paid in to the gineral fund for league expenses by the various certain he had paid as much as Comiskey, and the rivalry between these clubs brought out a statement showing the upproximate attendance for each of the eight clubs during the season.

Mr. Hart then had recourse to his beeks to back up this statement and sound a found a first of back. Up this statement and sound a found a first of the sevenry games played on the home grounds. Sevenry games were acheduled for the White Stocking the play on the south side plant, giving them an average of 1.71 paid admissions for the season.

The past year has been a hard one for the National League Cirbs.

The Philadelphia and Pittsburg clubs were the only ones not suffering losses. This places Brooklyn among the losses far far a money goes. LATHAM AS A WRITER. The Old St. Louis Player Talks of His Release From Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Oct. 20.—Ariie Latham, once the star third baseman of the St. Louis club and who this year acted as coach for Cincinnati in a letter to a Cincinnati friend says:

"I would suggest that you send some smart fellow like Tom Parrott to see him in reference to the matter. Parrott has a foxy way of getting information and I am sure he would get to Schwah and ascertain what I am vitally interested in knowing. After the good record that I made in the coaching box with the Reis it seems strange that I am not retained for next year. Between you and me it looks as if some of these cut rate coachers are trying to undermine me. I don't care to mention any names but if I run across from Tucker or Bull Chiles they will bear from me. I have received a large number of letters from Cincinnati friends asking why my name.

OTTAWA VS. HASKELL. Two of the Strongest Teams In Kansas to Meet Next Monday.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The alump in foot ball interest at Ottawa, which has been perceptible ever since the Ottawa-Kansas university game, scheduled for last Monday, was declared off, has taken a decided reaction. The boys are again livening up into their old form. They believe they have a much atronger team for opponents in next Monday's game at Lawrence than would have been the mighty jayhawkers.

leavily outdrawn Mr. Hart's aggregation of ball tossers. This sheory has been circulated widely throughout the past season, every opportunity being taken to magnify or minimize the attendance, according as the fan favored one park or the other.

This error on the part of those who estimated the crowds is easily explained by the difference in the seating capacity of the grand stands and bleachers on the two fields. A crowd of 5.000 or 5.000 would not more than half fill President Hart's stands, while that many in attendance at Comiskey's plant would jam the stands and give the appearance of twice that number.

ALLEGE M'COY OWES MONEY. Story at Morris Park That He is In Debt to Bookmakers.

New York, Oct. 20.—It was reported at the Morris Park track today that at the Morris Park track today that Norman Selby, better known as "Kid" McCoy, who left the city a few days ago, owes money in the ring to the extent of $5,000. Eddie Burke, a bookmaker, is said to be the largest creditor, McCoy, it is declared, owing him $1,200.

McCoy left town very quietly, and not until his arrival in England was announced was it reported that he had deserted New York. According to report, the "Kid" is bound for South Africa, where he has some mining property that is not yet developed.

There is a sult for divorce against McCoy pending, and he has not yet cleared himself of the charge that the fight he lost to Corbett was "faked," Eddie Burke was also implicated in the fight scandal, Mrs. McCoy being authority for the statement that he was the man who placed the "wise" money.

Racing at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Excitement was furnished in nearly every event, close finishes and some unexpected conclusions keeping the spectators guessing and the bookles uneasy. An accident occurred in the atesplechase event, which necessitated the destruction of Rollins, the favorite. The horse fell over the sixth jump, breaking his right leg at the shoulder. The accident happened in full view of the grand stand and he was taken from the field and shot. Rollins was a bay gelding, 6 years old. He had been a useful breadwinner and was a half brother to that fast horses, Acciaim, who was one of the best horses in the west some years ago. Rollins was a heavily played favorite, opening at 3 to 1 and being back to 8 to 5.

Bearen lought during the civil war with company D, First Kansas volunteers, and for several years has had in an appilication of a pension. He was received a voucher for $238, 48 back pension.

He drew the money at the Exchange National bank, receiving thirty ten dolar bills and some sliver. Dearen was happy over his good fortune, and began dirinking, and within two hours his money was gone. His wife found him shortly after he had drawn his money, and she begged him to let her have some of it for safe keeping, but he refused to do it. He had the money in his outside coat poket, and frequently felt to see if it was still there. Presently he felt for the bills and they were gone. Dearen had shown the money promiscnously, and several men were following him, presumably waiting for a chance to get his money.

WATCHING THE POLLS. Era of Cry of Election Fraud is Once More Here.

The pathetic and tiresome part of the ciennial campaign in Kansas is now upon the people, and there is no respite, even through tonics and nerve restorers from the cries of "fraud," "watch the opposition," "there are plans to count us out and steal the election" which will ring out from each of the state headquarters until the battle has ended.

Just why men who shake hands with each other daily, have business interests in common, are proud of the state in which they live, believe in Kansas and her future, should find it necessary to divide on political lines and charge the members of an opposing political party with fraud and dishonor is one of the hidden mysteries of politics which the plodding citizen will never understand. Criticism and denunciation were more opular a few years ago in all the position parties than today. Now it is the tractice for the candidates to refer in practice for the candidates to refer in terms as eulogistic as the circumstances will permit to the purposes and work of the opposition. In this manner the representatives of all the parties hope to steal away on election day with a few votes belonging to the other fellow.

Polite consideration has given the former plans of abuse a back seat. There are yet among the unpunished some who consider a first-class political speech a vindictive arraignment of the opposition, infused with denunciation of the personal character of a candidate.

the personal character of a candidate. As a rule humanity is much the same John J. Ingalis once said that "there is no law against a man getting rich." and no law against a man getting rich," and this is also true concerning political parties; there is no law against men identifying themselves with whatever political party their fancy dictates and there has not yet been created the political party which embraces all the wisdom, sagacity and common sense of the age. There never will be such a party. The country would be dead were all the people in it of the same opinion. The fact that the human mind and man are largely that the human mind and man are largely the same; that there is in a majority of men a sense of honor; that none of the political managers are fugitives from justice or on a vacation from a convict's cell, makes the cries of the sense of the conviction of the cities at the present time will do more work and the brushes can be replaced at a cost not to exceed.

a convict's cell, makes the cries of "fraud," "fraud," which are now floating about the country in Kansas very imusing.

The Republican managers are counseling their trusted workers in every pre-cinct of the state to watch the opposi-tion, and the Popullsts are sending out the same advice to the lieutenants in that party advising them to keep a watchful eye on the opposing element. "The Republicans are older at the business than we are," said a Populist manager today, "so we'll watch them all the time." The Republican politicians say that the fellows in the Populist party are as shrewd as those in any other party, and that their interest in the proposed frauds must be from a knowledge of how those things are accomplished.

So the cries of fraud, the straw vote fiend, the personal interview writer who puts out new documents every few days, the flopper, the incriminating political stories, the roorbacks, the cartoons—in fact, all the confusion of the combined intelligence of a large number of men engaged in political management in this state will have the right of way until after election. The statistician at the respective headquarters will continue to "announce" results which he knows no more about than a cigar store Indian, and the election will come and go much to the satisfaction of a peace-loving people. the roorbacks, the cartoons-is people.

used in all of the cities at the present time will do more work and the brushes can be replaced at a cost not to exceed $5. It seems that the city is displaying very poor economy in this respect. Street Commissioner Snyder said this morning, when asked why he had his force out doing aweeping in the day-morning, when asked why he had his force out doing sweeping in the day-time: "We were a little behind in the work and I was anxious to get those streets cleaned. We could not do it at night because we can not work as rapidly in the night. If we have good luck and the old sweepers do not get out of fix, we can sweep about twenty-three blocks during the night. If we can work in the day we can sweep from thiere. blocks during the night. If we can work in the day we can sweep from thirty-seven to forty blocks. If the city owned a sprinkler to run in front of the sweepers we could work in the day and do at least a third more work. At night we can sweep without a sprinkler as the dust does not bother the people."

The city needs one force to do nothing but sween the streets but the present ing but sweep the streets, but the pres-ent force is altogether too small to prop-erly attend to the streets.

It was on a West side cable. The stout Teuton woman with the little boy handed the conductor a $2 bill.

"Smallest you have?" inquired the conductor, as he shifted the allver and nickels in his pocket.

She thought he meant the little boy. "Nein!" she responded, "I half one home only dres months ald alreity."

Then the laugh was on the conductor.

"Tecoms News."
